You will fall in love with Aomori every time you visit.

Aomori Prefecture has four distinct beautiful seasons. Blessed with abundant nature, and uniquely enchanting. Experience the wonder you can find only in Aomori.

Location
Located on the east coast of the Asian Continent, Japan consists of four major islands (Hokkaido, Honshu, Shikoku, and Kyushu), and small islands around them. Aomori Prefecture is in the northernmost part of Honshu Island, at almost the same latitude as New York, Beijing, and Rome.

Area
At 23,216.24 million km², Japan's area accounts for 0.28%, approximately 377,000 km². Japan has the 60th largest area among 192 countries in the world, and its area is approximately one-twenty-fifth of Russia's area, and one-twenty-fifth of Canada's area, China's area, and the USA's area respectively. Aomori Prefecture's area is 8,444.55 km², the eighth largest prefecture in Japan. It accounts for almost 70% of the entire area of the prefecture.

Population
As of October 1, 2015, Aomori Prefecture's population is 1,308,265 (according to the census). The prefecture has the 31st largest population among prefectures in the country, and the third largest population after Hiroshima and Fukushima Prefectures among six prefectures in the Tohoku region.

Climate
Aomori Prefecture has a cold climate. In winter, moist air hitting mountains bring snow, and in summer, areas along the Pacific Ocean sometimes have days of low-temperature because of easterly winds (called yamasae). Aomori Prefecture is unique in that it has noticeable seasonal changes, and beautiful nature.

Temperature
- Average temperature: 11°C, highest temperature: 38°C, lowest temperature: -7°C (Aomori City in 2018)

Amount of snowfall
- Yearly snowfall: 566 cm, maximum snow depth: 107 cm (Aomori City in 2018)
